5 Hotels With One-of-a-Kind Culinary Experiences

Food adventures abound at these top-tier properties.

By The Editors on July 11, 2018

Great culinary experiences are no longer limited to the dining room. Hotels are taking guests beyond the plate and into the gardens, sea, and cellars. Here, five of our favorites to try now.

Viña Vik, Chile

From March to May you can join the harvest team of the renowned Viña Vik in Millahue, Chile. Guests at the stylish vineyard hotel start work at 11 p.m. (to keep the grapes cool, a key consideration for wines from warm climates), learning to choose and clip the best bunches before tasting the freshly pressed juice. The wine you helped make is aged for four years before a six-liter bottle is sent to your home. From $1,900 for three nights.
