

Haute Secrets: Design Star Phillip Thomas

BY CATHERINE SABINO | HAUTE SECRETS, NEWS | MARCH 10, 2017

Phillip Thomas, admired in interior design circles for his modern-classic aesthetic, had a breakout moment last spring when his “Lady Lair” room at the 2016 Kips Bay Decorator Show House drew raves and kudos from peers, press, and the public. Designed as an homage to his mother, the multi-purpose room was designed to be part refuge, part office, and part private entertaining space for friends (see below). Founder and principal of Phillip Thomas Inc. Thomas and his team have completed numerous projects in many top New York buildings including 15 Central Park West, River House, and One Madison. Currently he is designing a project for a client in the Dakota building on the Upper West Side. He also has projects underway in Miami, Chile, London, and Paris.

The wine you like to order most:

Being half Chilean, I am partial to a great Chilean Carmenere. I am particularly fond of the wines from Vina Vik in Millahue, Chile where I have spent some time. While it is hard to find in the US, I always say “where there is a will, there is a way.”
